FROM THE ARCHIVES CHAIR

During the first weekend in October, I had one of the most incredible service experiences that I have had in quite a while. I attended the National Alcoholics Anonymous Archives Workshop in Cocoa Beach, Florida. This yearly event is hosted by the local General Service area or district who bid to host it two years earlier. The workshop is four days long, beginning on Thursday with opening discussions about AA and archives and closing on Sunday with the bidding for the workshop location for two years in the future. The NAAAWS has been held in places such as Georgia, Colorado, Montana, and Niagara Falls. Next year it is going to be held in Springfield, Illinois. There is a field trip planned to go to the Lincoln Library and the Lincoln Museum and Log Cabin.

Because I have a great interest in oral histories, I went to the workshop specifically about oral histories. I learned that most of the archivists who conduct oral histories use the Oral History Kit that is in the Archive Workbook from the General Service Office and pick the questions that are suitable for their region as well as what they are trying to accomplish. Some oral histories are done simply to document a long-timer's story, while others are done to create a timeline of what AA was like in their district during certain time periods. Although it is interesting to bring a few long-timer's together to discuss AA, many archivists stated that it is difficult to listen to the oral history and impossible to transcribe it because the people tended to speak over each other unless they were very careful to not interrupt each other. I really enjoyed this workshop and felt it would help us to do our oral histories in the future.

I also attended the workshop about the archives and the digital age. The discussion focused on software, digital recorders, and different forms of digital preservation. First of all, I learned that, as we start to scan all our documents, we probably should save them as PDF-A in order to preserve the "fonts" so that the document will print out exactly the same 50 years from now as it does today. Also, when we replace our "lost" digital recorders, we can find software that will work with them to do the transcribing automatically for the oral histories. Pictures should be printed on acid free paper and the information about picture should be written separately, not on the photo. Most importantly, all archive information should be backed up!!! Flash drives are a great way to back up data!

The best workshop for me was the one in which I refreshed my skills on encapsulating our precious documents and photos. Recently, I found something that had writing on it and it was signed by Bill. Assuming that this is Bill Wilson, then this item needs to be encapsulated properly, and this workshop detailed the steps of how to de-acidify, center and seal the document so that the environment will not destroy it. I had been taught this procedure by the former SENY preservationist, but the refresher course was extremely valuable. I also found out how to fix our valuable books- but more importantly, I learned that we can have this AA member fix our books if we ever need to!

In my report to the SIA representatives on October 9th, I stated that I would be recommending to the Archive Committee that we do not send the same person to this event year after year, but rather, we send the new Archive Chair the first year of their rotation and then, if the budget allows, a different person the following year. The reason for this is that this event is so educational that anyone who is interested in archives should go and be exposed to the information that I had the privilege of learning on this weekend. I learned so much more about archives than I could have imagined possible. I want that experience for every person who seriously wants to work with the SIA Archives Committee.

I would like to thank SIA and the SIA representatives for the privilege of serving and having been able to experience the National AA Archives Workshop.

Wishing you peace in service, Cyndy Fitzpatrick

Huntington Group

Old First Church, 125 Main Street, Huntington, NY

Formed in January 1946, the Huntington Group is one of the oldest - if not the oldest - group in Suffolk County. The Alcoholics Anonymous World Services in Manhattan has a handwritten letter from Bill W. congratulating them on their first Anniversary, January 8, 1947. The group met twice a week having a closed meeting on Mondays at the Elks club on Main Street and an open meeting on Wednesday at the Southside Civic Association (1/4 mile before Jericho Turnpike on New York Avenue). The group continued at these locations until 1956 when it moved to the Old First Church across the street from the present Town Hall. You would enter through the back, go down the stairs and make a right down the long hallway to the meeting room, Curt recalls. Sometime in the late 80's, the meeting room switched to the southeast corner of the church under the ballroom.

The Huntington Group was an offshoot of the Garden City Group. The Manhasset and Baldwin Groups were also offshoots of the Garden city Group.

It is known that Bill W. came to Huntington Old First Church in the early days. On May 23rd 2004 Huntington celebrated its 58th group anniversary.
